

THE HONORABLE THOMAS S. ZILLY

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

LORIANN KHANI,

Plaintiff,

No. C09-1067Z

VS.

ORDER

REGENCE BLUESHIELD, a Washington
non-profit corporation, and THE BOEING
TRADITIONAL MEDICAL PLAN,

Defendants.

THIS MATTER comes before the Court on Plaintiff's Motion for Allowance of Attorney Fees, docket no. 75. Having considered all papers filed in support of and in opposition to Plaintiff's motion, the Court enters the following Order.

BACKGROUND

Plaintiff Loriann Khani brought this action under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (“ERISA”). Plaintiff, an employee of Boeing Company, sought

1 coverage from Defendants Regence Blue Shield (“Regence”) and Boeing Traditional 2 Medical Plan (the “Plan”) for a ventral hernia repair with component separation and 3 panniculectomy to address complications of a covered gastric bypass operation.
4 Regence pre-approved coverage for the ventral hernia repair with component
5 separation but denied coverage for the panniculectomy, causing Plaintiff to prepay
6 $6,000 in doctors’ fees related to the panniculectomy before undergoing the two 7 procedures in June 2007. Afterwards, Regence paid Virginia Mason Hospital (the 8 “Hospital”) for the hospital costs associated with the entire operation. When Plaintiff
9 appealed the denial of coverage for the panniculectomy, however, Regence obtained a 10 full refund of its payment for the operation. As a result, the Hospital’s collection
11 agency sued Plaintiff in state court for $35,304.64, the un-negotiated retail cost of the 12 operation. The state court stayed that lawsuit (the “Hospital’s Lawsuit”) pending the 13 outcome of this case.
14

15 After trial on the administrative record, the Court held that Regence abused its 16 discretion by denying coverage for the operation, made the denial in bad faith, and 17 committed serious procedural irregularities. Order at 27, Sept. 19, 2011 (docket no.
18 73). The Court ordered Defendants to pay the Hospital for the cost of the 2007
19 operation “such that the Hospital no longer has a claim against her for any portion of 20 that operation” and reimburse Plaintiff for the amount she pre-paid for the operation.
21
22 Id. at 27-28. Plaintiff now moves for attorney fees in the amount of $39,162.50.

1 DISCUSSION

2 An ERISA plan participant who prevails in a suit to enforce rights under the 3 plan may recover attorney fees “unless special circumstances would render such an 4 award unjust.” See Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 429 (1983); see also 29
5 U.S.C. § 1132(g)(1). To obtain attorney fees, the ERISA plan participant must show
6 that (i) he or she is entitled to attorney fees under the five factors articulated in 7 Hummel v. S.E. Rykoff & Co., 634 F.2d 446 (9th Cir. 1980)^{1,2}; and (ii) the fees are 8 reasonable as evaluated under the hybrid lodestar/multiplier test, see Van Gerwen v.
9 Guarantee Mut. Life Co., 214 F.3d 1041, 1045 (9th Cir. 2000).

10
11 The hourly attorney and paralegal rates sought by Plaintiff, $295 and $95
12 respectively, are reasonable and commensurate with amounts recently awarded to 13 similarly situated Seattle ERISA practitioners. See Johnson v. Georgia-Pacific Corp., 14 No. C04-1463RSM, 2009 WL 3190343, at *4 (W.D. Wash. Sept. 30, 2009) ($300 is a 15 reasonable hourly rate for counsel’s work); MacDonald v. Lincoln Nat. Life Ins. Co., 16 No. C09-829Z, 2010 WL 2985688, at *2 (W.D. Wash. July 23, 2010) ($300 and $125
17 are reasonable hourly rates for attorney and paralegal time respectively). In addition,
18

20 ¹ The five factors are: (1) the degree of the opposing parties’ culpability or bad faith; (2) the ability of 21 the opposing parties to satisfy an award of fees; (3) whether an award of fees against the opposing 22 parties would deter others from acting under similar circumstances; (4) whether the parties requesting 23 fees sought to benefit all participants and beneficiaries of an ERISA plan or to resolve a significant legal question regarding ERISA; and (5) the relative merits of the parties’ positions. Hummel, 634
F.2d at 453.

24
25 ² Given that Defendants acted in bad faith, Plaintiff is entitled to attorney fees. See Smith v. CMTA-
IAM Pension Trust, 746 F.2d 587, 590 (9th Cir. 1984) (“Based on [the degree of the opposing parties’ culpability or bad faith] alone, absent special circumstances, a prevailing ERISA employee plaintiff should ordinarily receive attorney’s fees from the defendant.”).

1 the number of attorney and paralegal hours expended on this case, 126.7 and 18.8
2 respectively, were reasonable, see MacDonald, 2010 WL 2985688 at *2 (105 attorney
3 and 4 paralegal hours were reasonably expended during the litigation), except with 4 regard to secretarial tasks performed by the paralegal, addressed in Section I below.

6 Without disputing Plaintiff's application of the Hummel factors to this case or 7 the reasonableness of Plaintiff's attorney's fees under the hybrid lodestar/multiplier
8 test, Defendants oppose Plaintiffs' attorney fee request on three separate grounds.

10 I. Secretarial Tasks Performed by a Paralegal

11 First, Defendants argue that Plaintiff should not recover fees, totaling $532.00,
12 associated with 5.6 hours of "secretarial tasks" performed by a paralegal, including 13 filing documents with the Court and organizing, scanning, and emailing exhibits for a 14 pre-trial statement.³ Def.'s Opp. at 6 (docket no. 80). This argument has merit.
15 Purely clerical or secretarial work, such as filing pleadings, is compensable in an 16 attorney's fee award if it is customary to bill such work separately, but such tasks
17 "should not be billed at the paralegal rate, regardless of who performs them." Davis v.
18 City and Cnty. of San Francisco, 976 F.2d 1536, 1543 (9th Cir. 1992) (quoting 19 Missouri v. Jenkins, 491 U.S. 274, 288 n.10 (1989)). Therefore, the Court excludes
20 5.6 paralegal hours from the time to be compensated. See Johnson v. Georgia-Pacific
21 Corp., No. C04-1463RSM, 2009 WL 3190343, at *2 (W.D. Wash. Sept. 30, 2009)

23
24 ³ Defendants additionally assert that the following tasks were "secretarial": Plaintiff's attorney's 25 conversation with the District Court clerk regarding the status of filing a complaint under seal; and 26 paralegal "review" and calculation of attorney fees and costs. Def.'s Opp. at 6-7 (docket no. 80).
Defendants provide no reasoning or case law to support the contention that a secretary could have appropriately performed such tasks, however. Id.

1 (excluding time spent on clerical activities from the time compensated by the attorney
2 fee award).

3 II. Representation in a Separate but Related Lawsuit

4 Second, Defendants argue that Plaintiff improperly seeks to recover attorney
5 fees, amounting to $4,689.50, for time spent on defending the Plaintiff from the 6 Hospital's Lawsuit, which they call a "separate lawsuit involving a nonparty" that 7 "does not involve ERISA claims." Def.'s Opp. at 3 (docket no. 80). Contrary to 8 Defendants' contentions, however, the Ninth Circuit has held that an award of attorney 9 fees should cover "every item of service which, at the time rendered, would have been 10 undertaken by a reasonable prudent lawyer to advance or protect his client's interest"
11 in the case at bar, even if such service involves representing other parties in a separate 12 lawsuit. Armstrong v. Davis, 318 F.3d 965, 971-72 (9th Cir. 2003) (quoting Hasbrouk
13 v. Texaco, Inc., 879 F.2d 632, 638 (9th Cir. 1989)); see also Gates v. Gomez, 60 F.3d 14 525, 535 (9th Cir. 1995) (affirming award of attorney fees for filing an amicus brief in 15 a similar action involving different parties); G & G Fire Sprinklers, Inc. v. Bradshaw, 16 156 F.3d 893, 908 (9th Cir. 1998) (affirming award of attorney fees for work on a 17 related, prior proceeding).

18 Here, Plaintiff's attorney's defense of Plaintiff in the Hospital's Lawsuit was a 19 service that "would have been undertaken by a reasonable prudent lawyer" to protect 20 Plaintiff's interest. While the Hospital's Lawsuit does not involve ERISA claims, it is 21 directly related to Plaintiff's ERISA claims in this case. Specifically, Defendants'
22
23
24
25
26

1 denial of coverage for Plaintiff's June 2007 operation, which constituted an abuse of 2 discretion and manifested serious procedural errors, caused the Hospital to sue
3 Plaintiff to recover the cost of the operation. See Order at 27-28, Sept. 19, 2011
4 (docket no. 73); Khani Decl. ¶ 12 (docket no. 48). Accordingly, defending Plaintiff
5 against the Hospital's Lawsuit was important to preserving Plaintiff's rights under 6 ERISA, and such action "would have been undertaken by a reasonable prudent lawyer
7 to advance or protect" Plaintiff's interest. See Armstrong, 318 F.2d at 972. Thus, the 8 Court may award attorney fees for Plaintiff's attorney's work on the Hospital's 9 Lawsuit, and the fact that the Hospital's Lawsuit was a separate but directly related 10 lawsuit does not bar such an award. See id.; G & G Fire Sprinklers, 156 F.3d at 908.
11 Therefore, the Court awards attorney fees for time spent by Plaintiff's attorney on 12 defending against the Hospital's Lawsuit.

13 III. Unsuccessful Attempt to Conduct a Deposition

14 Third, Defendants oppose Plaintiff's request for attorney's fees because they 15 claim that Plaintiff's unsuccessful attempt to conduct a deposition and oppose 16 Defendants' motion for protective order, amounting to $3,735.00 in attorney's fees, 17 was baseless. Def.'s Opp. at 5 (docket no. 80). This argument is meritless. Although 18 the Court granted Defendant's motion for protective order, Order at 7, Mar. 31, 2011
19 (docket no. 54), Plaintiff's attempt to conduct a deposition was not legally baseless
20 since the deposition sought evidence regarding procedural irregularities, Pl.'s Resp. to 21 Mot. for Protective Order at 10 (docket no. 36), and a district court may consider 22

1 evidence outside the administrative record when, as here, an ERISA plan administrator
2 has committed procedural irregularities. See Abatie v. Alta Health & Life Ins. Co.,
3 458 F.3d 955, 972-73 (9th Cir. 2006) (“the court may take additional evidence when
4 the irregularities have prevented full development of the administrative record”).
6 Further, when a plaintiff has completely prevailed in a lawsuit, as here, a fee award for 7 reasonable hours spent on the litigation “should not be reduced simply because the 8 plaintiff failed to prevail on every contention raised in the lawsuit.” Hensley v.
9 Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 435 (1983). Thus, Plaintiff’s lack of success in attempting to 10 take a deposition does not bar the Court from awarding attorney fees for that attempt,
11 and the Court awards attorney fees for time spent on that attempt.
12

13 CONCLUSION

14 The Court GRANTS IN PART and DENIES IN PART Plaintiff’s motion, 15 docket no. 75, and AWARDS attorney fees in the amount of $38,630.50. The Clerk is 16 DIRECTED to enter judgment consistent with this Order and to send copies of this 17 Order to all counsel of record.
18

19 IT IS SO ORDERED.
